Chapter 4

Known Limitations

This section lists potential issue discovered during the product test campaign and seen as limitation and may not be fixed in the final kit.

4.1 Lack of support for tooltip on mobile devices

Attribute HTML title (widely used to display information as tooltips) is not very well supported by mobile web browser that do not expose this attribute in an accessible manner as required by the HTML5 specification. So, it may be not useful and not visible due to a lack of support (especially by touch devices).

See <http://www.w3.org/html/wg/drafts/html/master/dom.html#the-title-attribute>

As a limitation in Unified OSS Console, people can have different experience with user interfaces based on the web browser they are currently using and the pointing devices used (mouse, touch...). This is a limitation of current web browser implementation.
